Public policy, advocacy, networking, and your business.

Michael,

What do these things have in common? They're all a part of the Job Creators Network Membership Program.

JCN is the leading voice for small businesses in America, advocating for lower taxes, less regulation, and better access to capital/credit. We hold politicians accountable, and defending you at every level of government.

But our members have an advantage that other businesses don't.

A dark blue membership card for JCN. At the top, it says 'JCN MEMBERSHIP' in white, followed by 'Only $0.13/ Day' in a smaller white font. Below this is a horizontal line. Under the line, it says 'WHAT YOU GET' in white, followed by a bulleted list: '• Advocacy Opportunities', '• Get Exclusive Business Discounts', '• Networking Across the Country', and '• Much More...'. At the bottom, there is a yellow button with the text 'JOIN TODAY!' in dark blue.

JCN MEMBERSHIP
Only $0.13/ Day

WHAT YOU GET

- Advocacy Opportunities
- Get Exclusive Business Discounts
- Networking Across the Country
- Much More...

JOIN TODAY!

As a member, businesses affiliated with JCN have direct input in our advocacy, working with us to shape the message we take to politicians across the country.

You also have the opportunity to participate in our business discount programs. These exclusive deals are only available to JCN members, and could mean thousands in savings for your business.

In addition, there are amazing networking opportunities for our members. Through events, conferences, and our directory listing, members have every opportunity to build relationships with like-minded entrepreneurs.

These exciting features are a few of the great opportunities available to our members, and they grow every day.

With JCN we're not only dedicated to advocating for your future, we're driven to help you grow your business.

We promise you won't regret it.

Sincerely,

Road to CEO: Warren Buffett

Warren Buffett is probably the most respected and quoted billionaires in the world. He oversees a massive business empire that consists of holdings in the media, real estate, food and beverage, insurance, and energy industries. However, Buffett was not always the larger-than-life success story that he is today.

Seattle Wage Hikes Decrease Average Pay

Since 2015, Seattle has incrementally increased their mandated entry-level wage—first to $11 an hour in 2015 and then to $13 an hour in 2016. (It's scheduled to go all the way to $15 an hour by 2018). Economists and politicians have long argued about the economic impact of the policy and to what extent it would affect the average worker.

What Is A Charter School?

Historically, education in the United States has been split between private schools, and traditional public schools. However, this dynamic changed in 1991 when Minnesota passed the first law establishing charter schools in the state. Since then, a majority of states have some kind of charter school system. But what exactly is a charter school?

Three Ways To Reduce Healthcare Costs

Healthcare costs are skyrocketing. Since the Affordable Care Act passed in 2010 health care costs have gone up by double digits each year. The health care bill did get more people insured and helped with issues like preexisting conditions, but the problem with the healthcare law isn't what it tried to do, it's what it failed to do: reduce costs.

Chris,

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to follow up on our conversation. I have attached the letter from JCN with the details of the Governors Committee. Please let me know if you have any questions on this matter.

Thanks

THE JOB CREATORS NETWORK GOVERNORS COMMITTEE

The JCN Governors Committee is a non-partisan entity that exists to share ideas and provide leadership at the state and federal level on ways to help small businesses grow by reducing taxes and regulations while improving access to credit.

Small businesses are the backbone of the American economy and epitomize the American Dream. The small business community encompasses more than 85 million jobs and is responsible for two thirds of all new job growth. The Job Creators Network supports this community and provides a voice for America's small business owners in state houses and in Washington DC and holds politicians accountable when it comes to small business growth.

Ultimately, JCN is working to help Governors establish a coalition of small business advocates in their respective states.

ROLE OF THE GOVERNORS COMMITTEE

The role of the Job Creators Network Governors Committee is focused on the following four activities: sharing best practices; identifying small business advocates; providing a megaphone to Washington D.C.; and, communicating with small businesses at home in your state.

Sharing Best Practices: Each Governor will appoint a staff liaison to work with JCN to identify initiatives, executive orders, and legislation in their state that has provided small business relief in the areas of over-taxation, over-regulation, and a lack of access to credit.

- JCN will compile the best-practices and small business growth ideas from the Governors Committee and share with legislators, business people, and the media. Your successes will serve as a road map to other states, who are looking to champion small business.

Identifying Small Business Advocates: Each Governor and staff will help JCN identify and recruit small business advocates in their state that would be willing to: testify in front of state and federal legislatures; and, be featured in new stories or videos highlighting the challenges of running a small business.

In addition, each Governor would be willing to facilitate introductions to key Congressional and state legislative leaders, who are also small business advocates.

Finally, we would be open to your suggestion for other Governors, Democratic or Republican, who are aligned with the mission of the Governors Committee.

Providing a Megaphone to Washington D.C.: Using existing relationships with federal legislators, members of the Governors Committee will communicate ideas on small business issues to move legislation at state and federal levels.

- JCN will help members of the Governors Committee write and place op-eds in national papers on policy issues.
- JCN will publicize the report on state best practices to reduce the regulatory burden on small businesses to federal legislators and the administration.

Communicating with Small Businesses in your State: Members of the Governors Committee are encouraged to attend at least one JCN member events in their state per year. Events will include policy roundtables and panel discussions with the small business constituents in your state. JCN will work to ensure press coverage.

COMPOSITION OF THE COUNCIL OF GOVERNORS

The Council of Governors is currently composed of the following:

- Chairman, Governor Doug Ducey (AZ)
- Member, Governor Terry Branstad, (IA)
- Member, Governor Bruce Rauner (IL)
- Member, Governor Larry Hogan (MD)
- Member, Governor Pete Ricketts (NE)
- Member, Governor Mary Fallin (OK)
- Member, Governor Scott Walker (WI)

I think I mentioned this to you briefly after I spoke to the Chief of Staff in Arizona.

Take a look and let me know if you think we have the capacity to do this. I told Kirk I would get back with him before we would commit but he has listed the governor on this document.

About Rick Horvitz

Chairman

Moreland Management Company

Richard Horvitz is Chairman of Moreland Management Company, a closely-held private family investment office. An attorney by training, Mr. Horvitz worked at Baker & Hostetler's Cleveland office before joining his family's operating businesses, since sold.

He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Children's Tumor Foundation since 1996. He was recently named as a director to Cupid Charities, Inc.

Richard was born and raised in Cleveland, Ohio. He received his AB with honors in Economics from Princeton University in 1975, and received his JD from Duke University School of Law in 1978. He is a member of both the Florida and Ohio bars.

In addition to his work with the Children's Tumor Foundation, Mr. Horvitz serves as an officer and a trustee of the Jewish Federation of Cleveland; as a Life Trustee of the Board of University School (an independent country day school in Cleveland where he also serves on the Investment Committee); and as a member of the University Hospitals Emeritus Leadership Council after serving for 16 years on the Board of Directors of University Hospitals of Cleveland Case Medical Center. Mr. Horvitz is a life member of the Board of Visitors of Duke University School of Law.

Mr. Horvitz is married to Erica Hartman-Horvitz. He has two children, Danielle and Matthew, from his marriage to his late wife, Marcy Rochelle Horvitz, a step-daughter, Ashley, a granddaughter, Arabella Juliet Weiner, as well as another granddaughter on the way.

About Erica Hartman-Horvitz

Erica Hartman is an Accredited Senior Appraiser of the American Society of Appraisers and a Certified Member of the Appraisers Association of America. She began her career in 1982 as both an art consultant and principal of a contemporary art gallery. She received her BA from Barnard College, an MBA from Columbia University, as well as an Appraisal Certificate from New York University. Over the past thirty years, she has developed an expertise in secondary market purchases and sales of fine art, curated numerous shows with favorable critical reviews, and engaged in numerous consulting assignments for collection management systems, marketing services, and educational programs. Erica has earned the highest designations available to professional appraisers. She currently serves as both Treasurer and Executive Committee member of the Appraisers Association of America.

American Higher Education Needs to be Realigned

The average cost to attend a traditional university in the United States ranges from $25,000 to $35,000 per year, depending on whether the school is a public or private institution. And according to a recent Gallup poll, 44 million Americans accumulated a total of $1.3 trillion in student loan debt to pay for it.

Solving the Tuition Crisis

A new study released by the American Enterprise Institute reveals a disconnect between tuition levels at traditional 4-year colleges and the direct funding levels that come from the state government. It shows that less than 5 percent of changes in direct state funding actually get passed through to college tuition costs.

Saving for College

As you know, college is expensive. According to the College Board, a “moderate” college budget for an in-state public college for the 2016–2017 academic year averaged $24,610, while a moderate budget for a private college comes out to $49,320. Today’s most expensive colleges hover around $70,000 per year.

Why We Need Healthcare Reform

Roughly seven years ago the Affordable Care Act (ACA) was signed into law by President Obama in an attempt to reign in rising healthcare costs and increase access to care. While the intentions behind the law were good, the outcome has been lackluster to say the least. In fact, regulations and taxes associated with the ACA are collapsing the entire U.S. healthcare system.

Three Ways To Reduce Healthcare Costs

Healthcare costs are skyrocketing. Since the Affordable Care Act passed in 2010 health care costs have gone up by double digits each year. The health care bill did get more people insured and helped with issues like preexisting conditions, but the problem with the healthcare law isn't what it tried to do, it's what it failed to do: reduce costs.

Michael,

To me, there is no greater gift than helping other small business owners grow and realize their dreams.

That's why my company focuses on providing work spaces for small business owners -- and their employees -- to build a strong and healthy work culture. The businesses we work with are dedicated to following their mission, growing the economy, and helping their community.

But every one of them has the same roadblock standing in their way... massive overregulation from Washington bureaucrats.

Once I realized the magnitude of Washington's burden on these businesses, it sparked something inside of me. If I was to truly help small businesses grow, I needed to help fight these harmful rules and regulations.

That's why I became a member of Job Creators Network.

By holding politicians accountable to job creators like us -- and amplifying the voice of Main Street America -- we continue to protect the 85 million people who depend on the success of American small businesses.

But we need more entrepreneurs like you to help us affect change at every level of government. One day, we will look back and tell our families that we helped restore the

New Legislation Unravels Harmful Joint Employer Standard

Recently, a bipartisan group of House legislators came together to introduce the Save Local Business Act (H.R. 3441), which would reestablish the original “joint employer” standard of liability—mainly targeted at strengthening the franchise business model. In short, the legislation clarifies that “two or more employers must have ‘actual, direct, and immediate control’ over employees to be considered joint employers.”

Good afternoon, Michael:

It's Sarah Lenti — Government Affairs Director for Job Creators Network. Hope all is well.

I am guessing you are aware of the push by Newt Gingrich for tax reform legislation by Thanksgiving of this year. He is pushing hard and Job Creators Network is partnering with him on the effort. We have an op-ed out on the effort today in USA Today. The piece is here: <https://www.usatoday.com/story/opinion/2017/08/02/pass-gop-tax-cuts-thanksgiving-get-ready-speaker-nancy-pelosi/529438001/>.

To regain their legislative momentum and keep their majority, Republicans must clearly demonstrate they are fighting for the country's hardworking taxpayers. This means passing a major tax cut by Thanksgiving — and making it retroactive to the start of this year. By 2018, the tax cuts will have spurred economic growth and wage increases, giving Republicans substantial momentum and a popular record of success to tout during their campaigns.

JCN would love to help create an echo chamber amongst Republican governors via an op-ed drive in support of the effort behind a legislative effort to cut taxes. We would like to offer you and Governor Fallin a tailored op-ed and placement of that op-ed as a part of this op-ed campaign. What do you think? If you think you are game, we will start drafting and include any examples of things Governor Fallin has done in your state on taxes/tax reform that you'd suggest including.

What do you think?

Best,

Sarah

Dear Michael:

Good afternoon. My name is Sarah Lenti, and I am writing on behalf of the Job Creators Network's recently launched Governors Committee. Attached is a letter from Arizona Governor Doug Ducey to your Governor. (Note that Governor Ducey has agreed to serve as the Honorary Chair of JCN's Governors Committee.) The letter from Governor Ducey seeks to: 1. reintroduce the Governors Committee and 2. explain the mission and timeliness of the Governors Committee and 3. formally invite your Governor to become a member of the Committee.

Governor Ducey will be following up with a call to your Governor in short order to discuss the Committee and your office's interest.

We thank you so much for your consideration,

Sarah Lenti

27 May 2017

Dear Governor Fallin:

Greetings, and I hope your 2017 is off to the great start. I am writing today in my capacity as the Honorary Chair of the Job Creators Network's Governors Committee. I'd like to reintroduce you the Job Creators Network and their recently launched Bring Small Business Back Campaign, which I believe rolled through your state.

I'd like to first say a few words about how pro-growth state policies can help jumpstart the economy by providing relief to small businesses. In Arizona, we've seen these benefits first-hand. My administration has worked to cut taxes, ease the regulatory burden, and improve access to credit for our state's small business job creators.

As a result we have had two years of 2% or greater monthly job growth, one of the best streaks in the nation. On top of that our poverty rate has fallen and more than 400,000 people moved to our state between April 2010 and July 2015, one of the biggest influxes in the country. It just goes to show that our economy and the small business community are thriving.

As Honorary Chair of JCN's Governors Committee, I invite you to join me on the committee and in the fight for small businesses. Small businesses are the backbone of the American economy and encompasses more than 85 million jobs. The small business community is responsible for two thirds of all new job growth across the United States, and that starts in our states. The goal of the committee is to create a defense against anti-business activists who are pushing for job killing regulations at both the state and local level. Together we'll advocate for policies that give small businesses relief and amplify our message all the way to Washington, D.C. I encourage you to join the Governor's Committee – together we'll Bring Small Businesses Back.

Should you have any questions about the committee and it's functions you can contact my Chief of Staff, Kirk Adams, to discuss. Sarah Lenti, JCN's Director of Government Affairs will be following up to discuss next steps shortly for those who are interested.

Thank you and respectfully,

To regain their legislative momentum and keep their majority, Republicans must clearly demonstrate they are fighting for the country's hardworking taxpayers. This means passing a major tax cut by Thanksgiving — and making it retroactive to the start of this year. By 2018, the tax cuts will have spurred economic growth and wage increases, giving Republicans substantial momentum and a popular record of success to tout during their campaigns.

JCN would love to help create an echo chamber amongst Republican governors via an op-ed drive in support of the effort behind a legislative effort to cut taxes. We would like to offer you and Governor Fallin a tailored op-ed and placement of that op-ed as a part of this op-ed campaign. What do you think? If you think you are game, we will start drafting and include any examples of things Governor Fallin has done in your state on taxes/tax reform that you'd suggest including.

What do you think?

Best,

Sarah

Dear Michael:

Good afternoon. My name is Sarah Lenti, and I am writing on behalf of the Job Creators Network's recently launched Governors Committee. Attached is a letter from Arizona Governor Doug Ducey to your Governor. (Note that Governor Ducey has agreed to serve as the Honorary Chair of JCN's Governors Committee.) The letter from Governor Ducey seeks to: 1. reintroduce the Governors Committee and 2. explain the mission and timeliness of the Governors Committee and 3. formally invite your Governor to become a member of the Committee.

Governor Ducey will be following up with a call to your Governor in short order to discuss the Committee and your office's interest.

We thank you so much for your consideration,

Sarah Lenti

Another Study Reveals the Harmful Effects of Raising the Minimum Wage

Last week, a new study was released that once again proves just how harmful a $15 minimum wage can be. The study, conducted by the economic consulting group PFM, found that raising the minimum wage to $15 an hour in Montgomery County, Maryland, would cost the county 47,000 jobs over the next five years. That job loss is equivalent to $396.5 million of income.

5 Things You Didn't Know About the Restaurant Industry

The restaurant industry in the U.S. is vast and is a part of daily life in America—with 57 percent of us eating at a restaurant at least once a week. In fact, for the first time in recorded history, U.S. consumers are spending more money at restaurants than at grocery stores. It's also been a great place for small business owners and entrepreneurs to get their start.

Supporting Small Business Tax Cuts

Tax cuts for small businesses will do a substantial amount of good for the U.S. economy and everyone in it. In fact, according to a new nationwide poll of small business owners conducted by the Job Creators Network, a majority of respondents said they would direct their tax cut savings into their businesses by creating more jobs, increasing wages, and expanding to new locations. This would provide a boost to the economy that will ensure continued economic growth.

Subject: WTAS: Praise Continues to Roll in for President Trump's Unified Framework for Tax Reform

THE WHITE HOUSE
Office of the Press Secretary

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 28, 2017

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING: PRAISE CONTINUES TO ROLL IN FOR PRESIDENT TRUMP UNIFIED FRAMEWORK FOR TAX REFORM

EDITORIAL BOARDS

The Wall Street Journal* Editorial Board: "Overall, the GOP has produced a tax-reform outline that can revitalize a weak economic expansion, lead to more new business creation, enhance worker productivity, and lift wages."

New York Post* Editorial Board: "The US economy needs strong medicine to break out of the slow growth 'new normal' it's been trapped in since the Great Recession. That has left Wall Street and the rich doing fine, but Main Street and everyone else struggling. The Big Six — Trump's top two economic advisers, the House and Senate leaders and the two chairmen of Congress' tax-writing committees — have now outlined just the medicine. It includes corporate-tax reform to finally make US rates competitive with those of other developed nations, along with changes for other businesses to put them on a fair footing with corporations, plus revision of the personal income tax code to put more money in middle-class pockets. Simplification of the code will also make it less maddening to actually do your taxes as well as ending some blatant inequalities."

The Washington Times* Editorial Board: "The details of the plan are almost all positive and pro-growth. This is as much a jobs bill as a tax plan."

Washington Examiner* Editorial Board: "A simpler corporate tax code doesn't just mean businesses would spend less time on paperwork and filing taxes, it means they can spend more time on productive endeavors, such as more innovation and product improvement. It also means Big Business won't be able simply to hire the best tax accountants to beat the little guy. They'll actually have to compete on the value of their goods and services."

Investor's Business Daily* Editorial Board: "Among the most potent provisions in the GOP tax reform package unveiled Wednesday by President Trump are the big cuts in taxes on corporations and small businesses.... By supporting corporate and small-business tax cuts that will boost investment, create more and better jobs, and raise average workers' incomes, Americans won't just be cutting taxes for businesses. They'll be cutting their own taxes, too."

National Review Editorial Board: "Republicans' framework for tax reform is chock-full of good ideas about modernizing the taxation of business."

PRIVATE SECTOR LEADERS, COMMENTATORS, AND ADVOCACY GROUPS

Eli Lilly & Co. Chairman And CEO David A. Ricks: "When President Trump came to my company's hometown of Indianapolis on Wednesday to lay out his tax-reform plan, it was welcome news. The proposal, developed by the White House and congressional Republicans, would cut the corporate tax rate to 20%, put in place a territorial system, and maintain tax credits for research and development. This would go a long way toward leveling the playing field for American workers and businesses competing against their foreign peers."

Best Buy Chairman and CEO Hubert Joly: "I am encouraged by the latest efforts by the Administration and Congressional leaders to advance corporate tax reform and the progress that has been made in recent months. For the first time in decades, the country has a real opportunity to achieve significant tax reform which will allow companies to reinvest in jobs, grow the economy and create opportunities for all Americans. We are ready to help pass tax reform this year."

Job Creators Network President and CEO Alfredo Ortiz: "While many details still need to be filled in, this is a crucial and positive step in the right direction. Make no mistake: the recent progress in the campaign for tax relief should bring optimism to the 29 million small business owners and the roughly 56 million people that depend on them for their livelihoods."

Mercatus Center Senior Research Fellow Veronique de Rugy: "There is a lot to like in this plan: It reforms the corporate income tax system, it reduces the tax rate for small businesses and S-corps, it simplifies the tax brackets on the individual side of the code from seven to three, it eliminates some of the tax exemptions which are both a handout to special interests and make the tax code complex and unfair. The bottom line is that, if implemented, it would be an improvement of our tax code."

The Heartland Institute President Tim Huelskamp: "President Donald Trump and Republicans are showing what strong leadership looks like by proposing this forward-looking tax plan. These tax reforms would help Americans get back to work and assist in draining the Washington, DC swamp."

The Heritage Foundation Policy Analyst Adam Michel: "Bold tax reform got a big boost on Wednesday. Leaders in the House, the Senate, and the White House have all agreed on a tax outline, meaning a true update to our broken tax system could be imminent.... Most simply, this will allow all Americans to keep more of their hard-earned money in their pockets. Importantly, the plan goes a long way toward fixing our business tax system, which makes it hard for U.S. businesses to invest in new equipment and new factories. Slow investment caused by our high and distortionary taxes has limited American job creation and slowed wage growth."

Independent Women’s Forum Senior Policy Analyst Patrice Onwuka: “The White House tax plan is a win for women.... Women will benefit as workers, keeping more of their earnings. Lowering the corporate tax rate will make it more likely that workers might finally see a real raise. And female business owners can look forward to greater growth and the opportunity to expand as they become more competitive with international businesses. We may experience even faster growth in women-owned businesses, which are already being established 1.5 times faster the national average. This tax plan would be a big step in the right direction for women and our country.”

Tea Party Patriots President Jenny Beth Martin: “Tea Party Patriots and our network of grassroots activists are excited by the framework President Trump and Republicans in Congress have released for top-to-bottom tax reform. After eight years of a stagnant economy under former President Obama that left too many American families behind, we are confident that fundamental tax reform will help Americans keep more of their hard-earned money, and will also foster an economic environment that will lead to greater job creation and prosperity for all Americans. The framework released by the White House and congressional Republicans will establish a tax system for individuals that is simpler, flatter and fairer, helping to lessen not only the enormous tax burden on Americans, but will also greatly reduce the outrageous compliance costs associated with today’s overly complex code.”

Fox News Contributor Bradley Blakeman: “President Trump’s tax plan is smart and timely. What matters is not how well Wall Street is doing. What matters is how well Main Street is doing. These reforms will be a tremendous boost to the middle class. It is time for a major overhaul of the U.S. tax code, tax rates, deductions and loopholes. What our economy needs more than anything is fairness and certainty. This plan will bring that.”

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX): “The priorities laid out today by Congressional leadership and the White House to reform our country’s broken, burdensome tax code are incredibly encouraging. There are numerous positive elements in the current outline for which I have long advocated, from lowering and flattening rates for individuals and businesses, to eliminating the death tax and the alternative minimum tax, to allowing for expensing of capital investments, to making reforms that will bring American jobs and companies back to the United States from overseas.”

Sen. Rob Portman (R-OH): “Our current tax code encourages U.S. companies to take jobs and investments overseas. The United States is falling behind while other countries are attracting more investment and more jobs at our expense. That is unacceptable. Our reform effort will encourage more investment in America, bring jobs home, and give American workers a competitive advantage.... I’ve been very pleased to see President Trump talking about the urgency of this issue around the country, including again today in Indiana. I’m optimistic about the prospects for getting tax reform signed into law this year. Working together, we can simplify our tax code in a common-sense way to increase investment here in America, create more jobs & increase wages for American workers.”

Sen. Pat Toomey (R-PA): “I see this as an amazing opportunity and responsibility. Enacting legislation consistent with this framework will allow us to achieve the growth that we’ve been waiting so long to achieve. There's nothing normal about two percent growth for the United States of America. We're capable of so much more. When we get this right, I am confident that we will achieve robust growth. What that means for the hardworking families that I represent all across Pennsylvania is a direct pay raise when we lower their direct tax burden. It also means an indirect pay raise as more jobs are created and more businesses are launched. Upward pressure on wages allows people to have a higher standard of living."

Rep. Brian Babin (R-TX): "This framework - supported by both the White House and leaders in Congress - marks an important first step in delivering pro-growth tax reform and relief to the American people. Having grown to over 70,000 pages long, the current tax code is too costly, complex and burdensome. It is time we simplify our broken tax code and allow Americans to keep more of their hard-earned money. This framework provides an important path forward that will lead to bigger paychecks, more jobs and greater economic freedom for middle class Americans. I look forward to working with my colleagues in achieving this historic opportunity to create a fairer, simpler, less burdensome tax code for the American people."

Rep. Steve Pearce (R-NM): "Small businesses are the cornerstone and families are the backbone of our state. For too long, our nation's complex, antiquated, and one-sided tax code has caused stress, undue burden, and hard-earned money to ensure compliance. This is simply wrong, and must change not only for the success of our communities, but for the success of New Mexico and the nation. The tax framework released today has the potential to finally bring the relief that has long been needed. Done right, it will strengthen the middle-class and working-class, ease the burden and stress on families, make small businesses a priority, and put America back on the competitive global playing field."

Subject: ALEC CEO Update: Tax Reform and Hurricanes

To view this email as a web page, go here.

Dear Members,

As many of you have geared back up following August vacations and the end of summer, I'm proud to report following Annual Meeting, ALEC never let off the gas. We capitalized on your energy and feedback on important national issues and are using your ideas to adopt new model policy, inform the 2018 state policy agenda and work on big federal efforts like tax reform. Beyond a commitment to sound, free-market policy, many ALEC members have also shown their love for community by serving in relief efforts for Hurricanes Harvey and Irma. I'm happy to share more on all of these items below.

Today, ALEC is leading policy discussions in the states and in Washington, D.C. This week, House Republicans released their tax reform framework offering the first real opportunity for comprehensive reforms in 30 years. ALEC was at the table all along advising Congress and the executive branch.

At Annual Meeting, Chief Economist Jonathan Williams and the Center for State Fiscal Reform held a listening/messaging session with Speaker Newt Gingrich and Alfredo Ortiz from the Job Creators Network. The result of your feedback was a memo sent to all ALEC members and distributed on Capitol Hill by House Republican Conference Chair and ALEC alumnae Cathy McMorris Rodgers.

The memo was only the beginning of our effort to raise awareness regarding state perspectives on tax reform. Jonathan Williams submitted testimony to the first tax reform hearing held by the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee (chaired by ALEC alumnus Representative Kevin Brady). In his testimony Jonathan focused on the lessons learned from tax reform efforts in the states, where nearly 30 states have significantly reduced taxes in the past four years alone.

As the Trump Administration began a more detailed discussion on their federal tax reform outline, key White House staff reached out to ALEC and enlisted the help of the Center for State Fiscal Reform. Jonathan Williams and Tax and Fiscal Policy Task Force Director Joel Griffith were called to the White House to brief the Administration on key tax reform principles and the lessons from state tax reform efforts.

ALEC also took a proactive role in reaching out to state legislators to encourage them to sign an open letter to Congress supporting the reduction of tax rates for all taxpayers by eliminating the state and local tax (SALT) deduction (If you are a legislator and haven't signed, please do so here). Repealing the SALT deduction would provide upwards of $1.5 trillion over the next decade to implement broad-based tax cuts nationally.

ALEC has also increased its unique influence by continuing relationships with ALEC Alumni Members of Congress. ALEC presence in Washington, D.C. helps us to inform and advise freedom-minded legislators on Capitol Hill about what works in the states and for everyday Americans. To keep the line of communication open, we are kicking off a series of calls on pressing legislative issues between Congress and ALEC legislative members. _Later today, learn the latest from the House Ways and Means Committee and Representative Rob Bishop's \(UT-1\) Task Force on Intergovernmental Affairs \(Federalism\). The call will take place on today \(Friday\) at 3:00 PM ET. Please RSVP for further details.

ALEC is where substantive state policy meets real world application, but our family is so much more. Hurricanes Harvey and Irma brought a great deal of destruction the southeastern United States over the last month. In the face of tragedy, while many of their constituents were potentially without power or knee deep in floodwaters, ALEC members were on the front lines helping with disaster response. Georgia Senator Judson Hill and Texas Representatives Phil King, Tony Dale and Briscoe Cain were deployed by the National Guard or the Texas State Guard to help with the response. As a result, their experience will benefit ALEC and other states through a discussion and potential model policy on state guards and disaster response. Be sure to check out the States and Nation Policy Summit Homeland Security Task Force meeting to participate in the discussion. If you would like to join the new Task Force email, Wes Fisher in the ALEC membership department.

ALEC is really firing on all cylinders. For several years, I've been saying "it's a great time to be at ALEC." And it is. The energy, commitment and accomplishment of our members is palpable, and I'm so glad you are part of it. Please share your experience with your colleagues and encourage them to come to Nashville for the States and Nation Policy Summit. I'm looking forward to seeing you there.

From Budget to Bill: How Small Business Tax Cuts Can Be Realized

On Thursday, the U.S. Senate voted 51 to 49 to pass a budget. The passage was perceived as a major hurdle to achieving small business and middle class tax cuts that have long been promised by lawmakers in Washington. But now that this hurdle has been cleared, what stands between the American people and significant tax relief legislation?

Don't Let the Way Kansas Handled Tax Cuts Be Used as an Excuse to Block Federal Cuts

The growing momentum behind federal tax cuts has defenders of high taxes worried. Witness their decision to start badmouthing Kansas tax cuts. A closer look at Kansas' tax cut experience reveals this argument is more style than substance. That's not to say Republican tax reform advocates in Congress and the White House can't learn from Kansas – just not the lesson that pro-tax activists are trying to impart.

THE WHITE HOUSE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
December 13, 2017

JOB CREATORS NETWORK PRESIDENT: "TAX BILL IS CHRISTMAS PRESENT AMERICANS HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR"

"Good for ordinary Americans. Good for small businesses. Good for local economies. This tax bill is the Christmas gift they've been waiting for."

Tax Bill Is Christmas Present Americans Have Been Waiting For

By Alfredo Ortiz
RealClearPolitics
December 13, 2017

Pending tax cut legislation will eliminate the federal income tax burden on the average American family earning $59,000 a year. It will halve the tax bill for the average family earning $75,000. And it will allow the overwhelming majority of small businesses to protect nearly one-quarter of their income from taxes.

That's the bottom line of the tax bill that needs to be said up front.

Given the critical media coverage of the bill, these benefits have largely gone overlooked. Rather than reporting on its provisions to double the standard deduction, double the child tax credit, and eliminate the 15 percent tax bracket in favor of a vastly expanded 12 percent rate, media coverage has claimed the bill is a gift to the rich. Rather than reporting on the new 23 percent tax deduction for small businesses earning less than $500,000 a year, media coverage has claimed the bill is a budget buster.

That's a shame because these benefits would bring long overdue relief to hardworking taxpayers who have borne the brunt of the slow growth Obama economy from which the country is finally emerging. Median wages were essentially flat between 2009 and 2016, while economic growth sputtered along at roughly 2 percent - both of which the tax bill would also meaningfully address.

Ordinary employees will not only see an immediate raise in their paycheck due to less federal tax withholding, but many will also receive raises or new job opportunities because small businesses will have more funds at their disposal.

Just as tax cuts would increase paychecks, they'd also jump-start the country's local economies, which have largely been passed over by the economic recovery. More money on Main Street and less sent off to Washington, D.C., would stimulate local investment, consumption, and job creation.

Good for ordinary Americans. Good for small businesses. Good for local economies. This tax bill is the Christmas gift they've been waiting for. Legislators must pass it now.

A Tale of Two Tax Bills

The U.S. House of Representatives and Senate have passed separate tax cut bills, meaning we are nearing the end of this windy road to tax cuts. But since Congress can't present two conflicting bills to President Trump to sign, the House and the Senate need to come together and reconcile their differences. This happens in Conference Committee.

Tax Cuts Legislation Also Means More Energy Independence

In a modern world, energy independence is an ever growing concern as our country's infrastructure, economy, and safety become more entangled by the day with the ability to access reliable energy. This means we need to responsibly take advantage of our domestic resources and transform the oil under our feet into energy that will sustain and strengthen U.S. status throughout the world.

Where Your Electricity Comes From

When you turn on the lights in your house or plug in your smartphone charger or even charge your electric car, do you know where your power is coming from? Electricity is something we don't think about very often until we don't have it or the cost of it goes way up.

How Energy Policy Affects You

Everybody needs electrical power. Whether it's to light our houses, pump gas for our cars, or to do our jobs. Incredible as it may seem, Government agencies and the Congress are proposing new laws to restrict energy production that have limited measurable benefits on the environment.

Cheers to the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act—passed and signed into law in December—included many great measures that will spur economic growth and rejuvenate Main Streets across the country. Most notably, it gives small business entrepreneurs the opportunity to invest more money back into their businesses through hiring more people, raising wages, and expanding operations. It also gives U.S. companies the ability to be more competitive abroad.

Subject: Breaking News: Give Your Workers a Tax-Cut Bonus - The Wall Street Journal

Andy Puzder, former CEO of CKE Restaurants and member of the Job Creators Network, has an op-ed in the Wall Street Journal this morning highlighting the benefits that millions of Americans are receiving from the tax cuts legislation—passed and signed into law in December.

Give Your Workers a Tax-Cut Bonus

If you're an employer who increased wages due to the Republican tax cuts, tell your employees why.

Andy Puzder goes on to argue that employers should make it known to their employees that the bump in pay is due to the tax bill. That way, Republicans receive the credit they deserve. View an excerpt below and read the full op-ed here.

Paychecks for the average employee earning $50,000 a year will increase by $100 a month. Those with children will get even bigger increases. For many Americans, this increased take-home pay may cover gasoline or cellphones for a year. For others, it will help with utility bills in a cold winter. The cuts will bring real relief to the four-fifths of working Americans who live paycheck-to-paycheck.

More than 120 major employers have announced significant tax-cut-induced wage increases and employee bonuses. Small businesses rarely make such announcements, but rest assured many are following suit as they compete for employees.

If you're an employer who increased wages or bonuses due to the Republican tax cuts, it's time to tell your employees why. Also, let them know their take-home pay is even larger because the federal government is taking less of their earnings. These employees are benefiting from the business and individual tax cuts. Democrats—and the media—told them they would benefit from neither.

day - and a great day - for America."

Advocacy & Policy Organizations

American Enterprise Institute Fellow Andy Smarick: "Wow. Huge applause and standing ovation for vocational schools--from both Dems and GOP."

Americans for Prosperity President Tim Phillips: "Millions of Americans are now beginning to feel the positive benefits of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, and the state of the union is stronger for it. Americans have entered 2018 with a growing sense of optimism as hundreds of companies respond to the new tax policy with bonuses, pay increases, and plans for new investments. This is only the beginning."

Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Neil Bradley: "Great to hear about infrastructure and workforce development in #SOTU2018. Two key priorities for @USChamber for 2018. Let's get it done!"

Conservative Partnership Institute Chairman and Former Senator Jim DeMint: "President Trump has spent his first year delivering for conservatives and advancing freedom for all Americans. From repealing billions of dollars in burdensome regulations and cutting taxes to pulling the United States out of the illegal Paris [climate accord] and putting ISIS on the run, the president has a monumental list of achievements to be proud of."

Family Research Council President Tony Perkins: "President Trump turned his State of the Union Address into an American pep rally. Cheering the American people for helping one another overcome a year of natural and man-made tragedies, the president cast a winning vision of unity."

Family Research Council Senior Fellow Ken Blackwell: "I applaud President Trump's powerful State of the Union address this evening. America has already felt the impact of the major domestic victories of Donald Trump's first year in office."

George Mason University's National Security Institute Founder Jamil Jaffer: "Today's State of the Union had a strong finish, with the President publicly making the case for a newly assertive America, unafraid of her enemies and unashamed of her allies. The President correctly called for an end to the defense sequester which has hampered our military effectiveness for far too long and instructed the Secretary of Defense to ensure that we have a viable capture option for terrorists that can't be prosecuted."

Independent Women's Voice President and CEO Heather Higgins: "A look back at President Trump first year as commander-in-chief shows how serious he is about keeping his promises, how much he has achieved, upending expectations even when everything seems to be going against him, and how he runs rings around conventional wisdom."

Job Creators Network CEO Alfredo Ortiz: "American business owners have waited almost a decade to hear a State of the Union Address like this one. The President focused heavily on cutting taxes, reducing regulations, and promoting American free enterprise. It was music to our ears."

March for Life Vice President of Government Affairs Tom McClusky: "Actions speak louder than words and personnel is policy. In both, this administration has been utterly clear that it remains steadfast in its commitment to defending human life."

Republican Jewish Coalition: “President @realDonaldTrump receives a standing ovation at the mention of the #GOP #TaxReform. Tax reform will nearly double the standard deduction, he notes that Americans will start taking home a lot more in their pay checks! #SOTU”

Small Business & Entrepreneurship Council President and CEO Karen Kerrigan: “Entrepreneurs credit President Trump’s leadership in getting things done during his first year. Small business owners are very optimistic about their future and the economy. High confidence, more capital and a renewed can-do spirit signal great things for entrepreneurs in 2018.”

Media Commentary

Forbes Media Chairman and Editor-in-Chief Steve Forbes: “The president tonight was grand and great. He repeatedly hit home runs.”

Fox News’ Ed Henry: “Such an incredibly emotional moment as @realDonaldTrump honors grieving families who lost daughters to #MS13”

Fox Business’ Neil Cavuto: “An incredible speech. Again, whether you support all of his positions or even like him, I have never seen anything like it.”

Fox Business’ Trish Regan: “I thought it was an exceptional speech, beautifully written and importantly, beautifully delivered.”

NBC News’ Kasie Hunt: “Bipartisan applause for President Trump’s call for rebuilding infrastructure.

NBC News’ Savannah Guthrie: “It was optimistic. It bright. It was conciliatory.”

New York Post’s Seth Mandel: “A+++ for bringing a North Korean refugee. Everyone should hear this. Well done, Mr. President.”

Former Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich (R): “[He] rivaled Reagan at his very best. No one has ever taken the guests who were there, and woven their personal story into general principles about America as well as Trump did tonight.”

Dear Members,

Forty-five years ago, a group of state leaders came together to form the American Legislative Exchange Council--people like Lew Uhler, Lou Barnett, Mark Rhoads, Henry Hyde, Terry Branstad and John Engler. They knew then, as we know now, that legislators and members of the private sector working together can have a more meaningful impact and create more opportunity for Americans than the government can working alone. They understood that a grassroots network of liberty-minded advocates was fundamental to spreading good ideas, but they likely had no idea how important ALEC would become.

For forty-five years, ALEC has been ahead of the curve on tax and fiscal policy, lawsuit reform, education choice, criminal justice and so many other issues fundamental to the American way of life. And, because of our focus on federalism rather than one-size-fits-all policy, ALEC has been able to put forth winning ideas--ideas that were more deeply vetted and more consistent with the will of the people.

Over the past year, the federal government has taken great steps to return power to the states. Through landmark tax reform and rule making designed to reduce the size of the federal government, our national leaders have signalled that now is the time for states to lead.

Just last night, the President offered a vision of a government that works hard to protect taxpayers and focuses on economic security for the middle class. Over the past year, that vision has become a reality with an $8 trillion increase in the stock market, 2.4 million new jobs, a record low for unemployment and businesses reinvesting in the states.

The past two months of bonus and compensation announcements across the American business landscape confirm to the American people what we already know: sound policy that unburdens American entrepreneurs and businesses yields a positive outcome for all Americans.

So as the 2018 legislative session heats up in your states, remember the ALEC mission and vision in all that you do. Limited government, free markets and federalism are a winning recipe for growth and opportunity.

I hope you will join me in celebrating the ALEC 45th Anniversary both in Washington, DC on September 26, and in your state.

Together, we can ensure ALEC continues it's ascendent path for another 45 years.

Sincerely,
